The San Joaquin River Conservancy's Governing Board awarded $1.8 million to two watershed protection and restoration projects, with funding from Proposition 1, the 2014 water bond.

The projects approved for funding include:

- Jensen River Ranch Habitat Enhancement Project, San Joaquin River Parkway and Conservation Trust, $272,754: To restore 20 acres of riparian and upland habitat within the Conservancy's Jenco Farms parcel, which lies adjacent to the previously restored 156-acre Jensen River Ranch.
- Sycamore Island Fishing Pond Enhancement Project, Department of Water Resources, $1,606,627: To construct public access enhancements to an existing off-stream gravel pit pond located at the Conservancy's Sycamore Island property. The project will improve fishing access for the public and accessibility to the pond within the recreation area.
